Introducing Your Awards...

For over 20 years, the A&D Awards have set the benchmark for excellence in architecture and interior design within Greater China and beyond.

Brought to you by PERSPECTIVE, the leading digital platform for the Architecture and Interior Design community in Asia Pacific, the awards are highly respected for recognising and celebrating the best and most innovative projects by regional and overseas practices.

This year, we are broadening the geographic scope of the A&D Awards to enable more practices to submit their best projects and designs (see Who Can Enter).

We continue with our rigorous two-tier judging process, introduced with great success in 2020, with some of the world's most talented and distinguished industry practitioners on the jury panels.

A&D Awards 2025 are the perfect platform to showcase the best of your work to the wider A&D community, including leading suppliers, developers, industry bodies and government agencies.

Winning a Gold, Silver or Bronze A&D Award is the ultimate accolade and serves as a powerful tool for growing your business in Asia Pacific and the rest of the world. Make sure you're a part of A&D Awards 2025!

The Judging Process

A world-class panel of leading architecture and design practitioners representing all elements of the industry will assess the entries in the A&D Awards 2025.

In 2020, we successfully introduced a two-tier judging system to further enhance the quality and accountability of our judging process. This system will continue for A&D Awards 2025. It operates as follows:

Round One

Judges will be split into groups according to their area of expertise. They will assess entries based on the following criteria and award a score of up to maximum 30 points:

- ▶ Strategic response. How well did the practice understand and interpret the objectives in the client's brief? How well did its proposed solution meet those objectives? (10 points)
- ▶ Project execution. How well did the practice go about executing its solution? What creative design elements, materials, approaches were used in the project? Is it sustainable and socially and environmentally friendly? How successfully did the finished project achieve what the practice set out to do. (20 points)

Entrants will be asked to supply high-resolution images to support their submission. Although the images will not be awarded points, they will play a critical role in helping the judges assess the aesthetic quality and successful execution of the project.

Round One judging will take place online, via the A&D Awards platform. Judges will not judge their own work at any stage in the process and will score each entry on its own merit rather than against other entries in the same category.

Entries that receive a benchmark score (generally about 70% of the possible 30 points) or more, will be shortlisted for Round Two judging.

If all entries in a category fail to achieve the benchmark level, there will be no award winners in the category.

Shortlisted entries will be announced and promoted through the A&D Awards 2025 section of the PERSPECTIVE website (www.perspectiveglobal.com) as well as our social media channels. Being shortlisted is an important achievement that you can be proud of, and it puts you in the running for the even bigger awards!

The Judging Process

Round Two

Judges will assess the shortlisted entries to determine who will be the recipients of the prestigious Gold, Silver and Bronze A&D Awards in each category. They can discuss and debate the merits of each project collectively before scoring them individually.

Judges will re-assess the shortlisted entries and rank order the top 5 projects in each category.

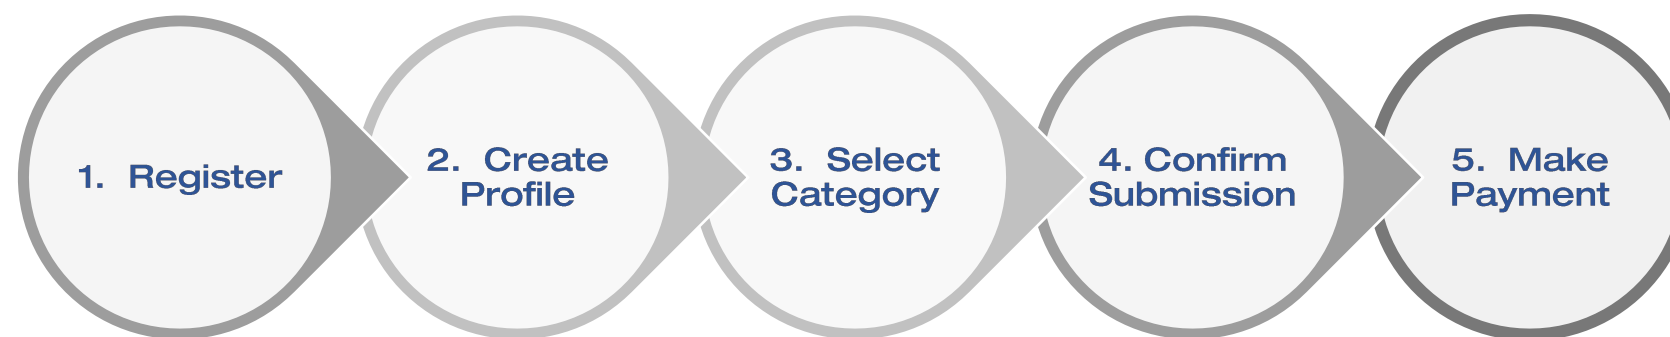

Judges' individual rankings will be aggregated and divided by the number of judges to establish an average ranking for each entry. The top 3 highest average ranking entries will earn the Gold, Silver and Bronze awards respectively. As stated previously, judges will not be able to adjudicate entries submitted by their own practice.

If a category has fewer than 5 shortlisted entries, judges will still rank the entries and those with the highest average rankings will receive awards. If a category has only one shortlisted entry, it will be automatically become a Gold Award winner.

A&D Awards – Practice of the Year

The A&D Practice of the Year Award will go to the practice which has amassed the highest number of points from the combined score of their shortlisted entries in the A&D 2025 Awards.
